E te Minita, tēnā koe,

Congratulations and introduction to the Neurological Alliance of New Zealand

Congratulations on your appointment as the Minister of Health. This is a critically important portfolio and one that brings with it significant challenge and opportunities. We look forward to engaging with you on practical ways to improve the health and wellbeing of the growing numbers of New Zealanders with neurological conditions.

As you know, neurological conditions place a significant burden on health and disability systems in Aotearoa and this is worsening as our population grows and ages. The Neurological Alliance (the Alliance) estimates that one in three New Zealanders will be affected by a neurological condition at some point in their lifetime.¹ According to mortality data, one in five deaths in Aotearoa are caused by a neurological condition.²

We have pooled the collective knowledge of the twenty members of the Alliance to identify the four most important actions the Government can take to optimise brain health, reduce inequities and better serve people in our communities with neurological conditions. Our priorities are based on feedback from our members who are working daily supporting thousands of people with neurological conditions, and their carers/whānau.

We have attached for your reference a two page At a Glance infographic which provides statistics on neurological conditions and a brief description of our four priorities:

- 1) Address health workforce shortages to speed up diagnosis and treatment
- 2) Increase funding for pharmaceutical treatment to improve quality of life
- 3) Increase funding for community-based care and support services
- 4) Improve data collection on neurological conditions

Information accessed via an Official Information Act request to Te Whatu Ora (TWO) reveals how critical neurological health workforce shortages are with only 47.8 (FTE) neurologists and 71.5 (FTE) neurology nurses across all our public hospitals (November 2023). These shortages (and shortages in the broader health workforce) have a cascading impact on our other priorities and results in lengthy waiting times and diagnostic and treatment delays.

Meeting Government international commitments

By working with the Alliance to further our four priorities, the Government would be demonstrating its commitment to meeting its obligations as signatory to the UNCRPD and the WHO Intersectoral Global Action Plan on Epilepsy and Other Neurological Conditions (2022-31).

United Nations Convention of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UNCRPD)

Many people have neurological conditions that cause significant long-term disability. In its recent Observations Report (September 2022), the Committee monitoring our implementation of the UNCRPD made a number of recommendations³ that would improve the quality of life of many New Zealanders with disabilities. We encourage you to work with Ministers across portfolios including Whaikaha, Social Development and ACC, to ensure each recommendation is enacted.

WHO Intersectoral Global Action Plan (IGAP) on Epilepsy and Other Neurological Conditions (2022-31)

New Zealand is one of 194 member states that approved the IGAP ten year roadmap to reduce the stigma, impact and burden of neurological conditions in 2022. Please refer to the two page summary of the IGAP (IGAP Unpacked⁴) and note the overlap with the Alliance's four priorities.

We welcome the new portfolio of Associate Minister of Health (Pharmac) and will be contacting Hon. David Seymour directly in relation to our second priority to increase funding for pharmaceutical treatment to the improve quality of life of people with neurological conditions.

We request an opportunity to meet with you in the New Year to discuss our four priorities and to provide you with further information on the challenges facing the neurological community and the organisations which support them.

Ngā mihi nui
